

Unlocking our Potential

Government of
Northwest Territories

We've got a different perspective on exporting LNG from northern Canada. Changing ice conditions, longer shipping seasons and improved tanker and LNG technologies mean our gas is closer to the Asian market place than you might think.

And, it's way more than LNG...

Proven reserves of liquefied natural gas in Mackenzie Delta are just a small part of the NWT's full hydrocarbon potential. From the Beaufort Sea to the Alberta border (and including our country's longest operating oilfield in Norman Wells), Canada's Northwest Territories is blessed with world-class reserves of conventional and non-conventional oil and natural gas – both onshore and offshore.
